-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136 (a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Claim Objections

Claim 7 is objected to because of the following informalities: The use of parenthetical expressions in the claims, e.g., "(IUD)" is considered informal. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 3, 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The expression "above-mentioned active ingredients" in claims 1 and 6, and "above-mentioned types of administration" in claim 7 are indefinite. It is not clear to which active ingredients or which modes of administration these expressions refer.

Claims 1-7 provide for the use of biogenic estrogen sulfamates for oral, intermittent administration, but, since the claims do not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

Note that in order to expedite prosecution herein, claims 1 and 3-7 have been treated as methods of using estrogen sulfamates in hormone replacement therapy, and claim 2 has been treated as a method for the manufacture of a medicament.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-7 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 23 and 24 of copending

Application No. 09/755,429. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the employment of the biogenic estrogen sulfamate in hormone replacement therapy method of claims 1-7 of the instant application is encompassed by the Formula I compounds used in hormone therapy method of claims 23-24 of copending Application No. 09/755,429.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Siemann et al. in view of Gale et al. (USPN 5,314,694).

Siemann et al. (WO 96/05216) teaches novel estra-1,3,5,(10)-triene amidosulphamates. When R1, R2, R4, R5, R6 and R8 are each H and R7 and R9 are OH, the formula I structure is that of estriol-3-sulphamate within the instant claims, see particularly page 8. Siemann et al. (WO 96/05216) further teaches employing these compounds in compositions and methods for hormone replacement therapy, see abstract. Siemann et al. (WO 96/05216) also teaches the dosage to be 10 microgram of estradiol, ethinyl-estradiol and estriol per animal per day, see table

I.

Siemann et al. (WO 96/05216) does not teach the use of gestagens in its method of hormone replacement therapy; neither does it teach the continued administration of the gestagen.

Gale et al. (USPN 5,314,694) teaches the employment of an estrogen along with norgestrel, in a device useful for continuous transdermal administration, in a method of hormone replacement therapy in women, see claims 11, 13 and 19, col.13-14.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to employ the estrogen sulfamates in Siemann et al. (WO 96/05216) in combination with gestagens in methods of hormone replacement therapy. It would have also been obvious to administer the gestagen in a continuous manner.

One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to employ a gestagen along with any of the compounds of Siemann et al. (WO 96/05216) in a method hormone replacement therapy because both gestagens and estrogen sulfamates are known to be useful in hormone replacement therapy methods. Combining two agents which are known to be useful in hormone replacement therapy methods individually into a single composition useful for the very same purpose is prima facie obvious. See In re Kerkhoven, 205 USPQ 1069. At least additive therapeutic effects would be reasonably expected. Please note that the method of making a composition by merely mixing or combining ingredients is considered prima facie obvious.
